SUBJECTS TAUGHT BY ACCREDITED SCHOOLS

This is a PARTIAL list of home study subjects.

Many separate courses are available in each subject area. Courses vary widely in what they cover. For example, one course in radio may teach a student to repair radios; another may teach him to be an engineer with a broadcasting company. Write to the schools for complete information, then pick the particular course you want.

The fact that two or more accredited schools offer courses with similar titles does not mean that these courses are of equal merit or will be of equal value to you. It does mean that each school truthfully describes its offerings and that fees charged are reasonable for the instruction and services rendered.

NUMBERS refer to schools listed.

EXAMPLE:

Conservation..87-100

School 87 is the National School of Conservation.

School 100 is the North American School of Conservation.

ADVANTAGES OF HOME STUDY

Home study is especially suited for busy people who wish to increase their knowledge and skills.

With home study, you do not have to give up your job, leave home, or lose income. You learn as you earn. The school comes to you. You receive individual attention and work at your own pace.

Older adults do not have to compete with youngsters fresh from school. They can get into the swing of learning again at their own rate. Retired couples may learn new vocations or hobbies.

With home study, you can study subjects you cannot find locally. You can study practically anything: business courses; skilled trades; preparation for professional licenses; profitable hobbies and academic subjects.

Many courses provide complete vocational training. Others prepare you for upgrading in your present job, without losing experience or seniority.

Emphasis is on learning what you need to know. Instructional materials from accredited schools are up-to-date, clearly written and easy to understand.

WHAT HOME STUDY ACCREDITING MEANS

For more than forty-two years the National Home Study Council has been the standard-setting agency for private home study schools. The Council has progressively raised its standards. Its accrediting program employs procedures similar to those of other educational accrediting associations.

Each accredited school meets the following standards:

- It has a competent faculty.
- It offers educationally sound and up-to-date courses.
- It carefully screens students for admission.
- It provides satisfactory educational services.
- It has demonstrated ample student success and satisfaction.
- Its tuition charges are reasonable.
- It advertises its courses truthfully.
- It is financially able to deliver high quality educational service.

To become accredited each school has made an intensive study of its own operation, opened its doors to a thorough inspection by an outside examining committee, supplied all information required by the Accrediting Commission, and submitted its instructional material for a thorough review by competent subject-matter specialists. This examination is repeated every five years.

THE ACCREDITING COMMISSION

The Accrediting Commission establishes educational, ethical and business standards; examines and evaluates private home study schools in terms of these standards; and accredits those who qualify. The Commission does not examine and approve programs normally given at the post-collegiate professional level.

The members of the Accrediting Commission are:

- HEROLD C. HUNT, Chairman, Eliot Professor of Education, Harvard University
- RONALD D. CLARK, Vice Chairman, Dean of the Faculty, International Correspondence Schools
- JOHN C. BUCKBEE, JR., Chairman of the Board, Art Instruction Schools
- LAWRENCE G. DERTHICK, Assistant Executive Secretary for Professional Development and Instructional Services, National Education Association
- ALVIN C. EURICH, Chairman of Educational Research and Development, FAS International, Inc.
- S. NORMAN FEINGOLD, National Director, B'nai B'rith Vocational Service
- D. W. HOLBROOK, President, Home Study Institute
- SAMUEL L. LOVE, President, National Camera
- K. BRANTLEY WATSON, Vice President, Human Relations, McCormick & Company, Inc.
